Dear New Bedford High School Families,

When surprise school closures happen, educators wonder how to keep the learning alive. We appreciate your support during these uncertain times. Extended periods of time out of school can cause some loss of learning, but it also can provide unique opportunities for our young adult students to learn in different ways. Sometimes days at home are best left unstructured for creativity, but in times of uncertainty it can be helpful for children of all ages to have some structure to their days.

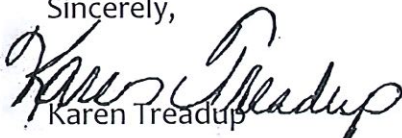

Students are encouraged to access school work through their teachers' classroom Teams utilizing their school issued laptops. In addition, grade and subject level learning activities are available online on the New Bedford High School website. Students are also encouraged to access the free educational websites that can be found on the New Bedford Public Schools website.

If you need assistance in accessing the grade level materials, please call New Bedford High School at (508) 997-4511 extension 20207.

We also recommend that families monitor the students' screen time. This would include video games, television, movies, handheld, and cellphones and that students continue with regular sleep habits and schedules.

Thank you for your support in keeping our students safe, healthy and learning during this time away from school.

Sincerely,

Karen Treadup
Deputy Superintendent
